

OUR WASHINGTON LETTER.

Washington, D. C., April 24, 1891.

An interesting feature of the present week has been the visit of a portion of the celebrated Sixth Massachusetts regiment, which was attacked by a mob in the streets of Baltimore, while on its way to the defence of the capital in April 1861. They arrived here Tuesday evening from Baltimore, where for two days hospitalities had been showered upon them to make amends for their very inhospitable treatment thirty years ago, and up to this morning when they started upon their return home they have practically owned Washington, everybody seeming anxious to do something to add to their pleasure. The veterans met many old friends here who were here when they came in '61, and reminiscences of that period have been in order all the week.

There is a general desire to have the annual encampment of the G. A. R. in 1892, held in Washington, but so far there has been no organized effort to secure it. The G. A. R. men say that they will not invite their comrades to meet here unless there is a fund of at least $50,000 guaranteed for their entertainment. It is believed that this fund could be raised here if the right parties would take hold of the matter, and there is still hope that they will do it.

Attorney General Miller, who has been laid up with the grip for a couple of weeks is again at his desk, and next week he will appear before the Supreme Court in the Sayward case and also in the case involving the constitutionality of the law closing the mails to newspapers that publish lottery advertisements, both of which were postponed on account of his illness.

General Superintendent White, of the Railway Mail Service, believes in personally encouraging the men under him, and he has just announced his intention to present the clerk who makes during the year ending December 31, 1891, the best case examination, a handsome gold medal. This is open to every mail clerk in the service, and will doubtless prove an incentive to increased efficiency among the boys who handle our ever growing volume of mail matter.

Secretary Foster has about $18,000,000 in silver half dollars in the Treasury which he is very anxious to get into circulation, and it has about been decided to withdraw, gradually, enough of the $24,000,000 now on deposit with the two hundred national banks, which are designated Government depositories to enable him to replace it with these silver half dollars, so no one need be surprised to find the national banks paying out an unusual number of silver half dollars. It is expected that the transfer will be effected by July 1, on which date the Treasury department will have to pay out about $30,000,000 on account of pensions.

His Love of Children.

This story shows what Barnum thought of children: Three years ago, says the New York Times when the show was about to open at the Garden, a most pathetic letter, addressed to Mr. Barnum, came from a little nine-year-old boy on the East side. It was printed on a scrap of paper, and is here given verbatim: "Dere Mr. Barnume: I am a little boy an i am very sic in bed. I have been waiting a long time for yure circus to come and now its come i can not go the doctor sals. Dere Mr. Barnume please let the parade go, by my hous." Mr. Barnum at once ordered the parade to conform its route to that sick boy's wish, though it took it four blocks out of the line originally laid out.
